

First Aid Response

Aim

First Aid Response is a Pre-Hospital Emergency Care Council (PHECC) certified course, recommended by the Health and Safety Authority and TUSLA. The aim is to equip workplace first aiders with the skills to deal with the medical emergencies in the workplace.

HealthCo's quality management system has been recognised by PHECC, gaining the award of Approved Training Institute in 2019. This guarantees that training will take place in a high quality venue with a highly competent tutor. It also enables us to process certification internally, meaning you get your certificate faster.

Course Content

- Patient Assessment
- Incident Procedure
- Cardiac First Response – Community
- Common Medical Emergencies
- Injury Management and Shock
- Care of the Unconscious Patient
- Burns and Electrical Injury Care
- Hypothermia and Hyperthermia
- Information Management
- Communications
- The Well-being of the First Aid Responder

Programme duration:

3 Days

Learner numbers:

8 learners permitted per tutor

Eligibility:

Course is delivered in English

Assessment:

Five continuous assessment practical activities and one written multiple choice question paper

Accreditation:

Pre-Hospital Emergency Care Council